In view of the diversity of entertainment effered and the great crowds which will undoubtedly throng Richmond this week, the citizens of the capital city are taking a profound interest in the carnival, and are decorating their houses in most elaborate fashion. All over the city bunting is displayed in profusion, and the city is in gala attire. The City Hall will be handsomely decorated. The contract for the work was on yesterday awarded to Cobb & Gardner at $200. The principal decorations will be over the principal decorations will be over the four entrances, and on the Broad-street side. On the latter there will be a picture, of President McKinley 20x30 feet. Flags, draperies, festoons, etc., will be used layably.

The city is not only profusely decorated, but Tuesday will be observed as a general holiday. The city offices, the State offices, the banks, all of the manufactories, and a large majority of the commercial houses will be closed, and many of their employees will participate. any of their employees will participate

The city streets, especially those over which the parade will pass, and in the vicinity of the dock, are being swept clean, preparatory to the carnival, and Board of Health urgently request garbage receptacles until after Tuesday all citizens to withhold their ash and order that the city may present as cleanly an appearance as possible

NEWSPAPER MEN COMING. Richmond will receive considerable advertising from the carnival. The promivertising from the carnival. The prominent newspapers all over the country have signified their purpose of sending staff correspondents here, and the Civic Carnival Committee has made arrangements for properly caring for them. Mr. Travers issued the following address concerning them yesterday:

WILL QUAY BE SEATED!

This Senatorial Question Now Looming Up-Washington Personals.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 28.-(Special.)-As the time for the reassers bling of Congress approaches, speculation regarding the probable action of the Sen ete in the matter of scating Senator Quay of Pennsylvania, increases. It is cocceded that the conclusions reached ceded that the conclusions reached by that bedy in this case will likely have an important bearing in the filling of senatorial vacancies in Delaware, Cali-fornia, and Utah, which are now short in their representation in the upper house for similar reasons. Quay, it will be re-membered, falled of election, and was membered, failed of election, and was appointed by the Governor, one of his political creatures.

The friends of the Pennsylvania boss realize that it will be uphill work to break down the principle that has been repeatedly maintained, that the Governor of a State has no authority to appoint of a State has no authority to appoint when the Legislature, having had an opportunity, failed to elect. They seem to pin their faith, however, upon Quage's adroitness as a politician, and though there is nothing to warrant the prediction, they are already announcing that the Republican leader from Peansylvania will be seated. They declare that the action of the Senate in the Corbett and other cases, involving the same principle furnishes to criterion, and that the vote in the Quay case will be governed by the individual wishes of the senators. This is something that remains to be seen.

Speaking of the Boer war and the gold supply, Henry Clews said yesterday;

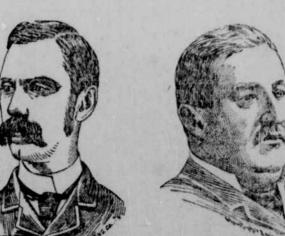

When the Boers cease to bore the British, which will be the case after they get one good General Buller whipping, the crusi war will about end, and then the South African gold-mines will renew their flow of gold to London. These mines are good hereafter for $100,000,000 of gold a year, which is one third of the world's present output. Nothing will help good investment and active speculative stocks to advance mere than for large amounts of the precious metal to pour into London or New York from outside sections of the world. If the African mines preduce at the rate of $100,000,000 this year, which they can easily do upon the return of peace, it will make the world's output $200,000,000—the largest on record. This is the strongest, safest, and mest legitimate basis for the inflation of values that is possible.
